 Defendants.)

THIS MATTER is before the Court on its own motion. As detailed in this Court’s recent Case Management Order, (Doc. No. 1562), this case involves complex claims under CERCLA against hundreds of defendants. Further, as the case has proceeded, Plaintiff has regularly filed unopposed motions to dismiss certain defendants, which the Court has routinely granted by simple orders in a form submitted by the relevant parties. (See, e.g., Doc. Nos. 1590, 1591, 1593). Most of the parties in the case receive copies of these unopposed dismissal orders through the Court’s ECF system. However, to all pro se defendants, the Clerk of Court, at a significant burden, has separately mailed copies of each order. The Court finds that continuing this mailing of unopposed orders related only to other defendants is unnecessary, would be a waste of the Court’s resources and that the pro se defendants currently receiving the mailings will not be prejudiced by their curtailment.

direction of the Court to mail a particular order. Any pro se party who wants to continue to receive all orders in this matter may move the Court to direct the Clerk's office to mail future orders, which motion will be allowed upon a showing of good cause.

SO ORDERED.
